

Furniture Conservation Training Program

Master Reading List

Revised March, 1996

Introduction to Furniture Conservation

- Course Text
- Conservation Ethics and Principles
- Wood Technology
- Insect Infestation

Furniture History and Construction

- European
- American

Methods of Examination, Analysis and Documentation of Furniture

- Examination and Documentation
- Photography, UV, IR, Radiography
- Microscopy
- Principles of Chemistry and Material Technology
- Analysis
- General Analytical Texts (Classical)
- General Analytical Texts (Instrumental)

Survey of Non-Wood Materials for Furniture Conservation

- Bone and Ivory
- Ceramics
- Glass
- Leather
- Metals
- Ormolu
- Parchment
- Paper
- Plastics
- Reeds, Rushes, Cane
- Shell
- Textiles

Adhesives for Furniture Conservation

- Veneering Techniques
- Adhesive Technology
- Conservation of Adhesive and Veneer Problems

Structural Conservation of Furniture

- General Structural Deterioration and Conservation
- Consolidation of Degraded Wood
- Upholstery Conservation
- Joinery and Fabrication

Coatings for Furniture Conservation

- Miscellaneous Coatings History, Technology, and Materials
- Coatings Technology References
- Solubility
- The Finishing Craft
- Coatings Analysis and Evaluation
- Coatings Deterioration and Conservation
- Evaluation of Appearance
- Color Theory
- Technology of Natural and Synthetic Dyes
- Synthesis, Modification, and Properties of Polymers and Films
- Health and Safety
- Detergents and Detergency
- History of Painted American Furniture
- Lacquered Furniture
- Paint and Painting
- Panel Paintings
- Polychrome Sculpture
- Treatment of Painted Furniture

Gilding Conservation

- Craft of Gilding
- Conservation of Gilt Wooden Surfaces
- Case Studies and Treatment Abstracts
- Identification of Frames, Looking Glasses, and Painted Furniture

Exhibition, Storage, and Handling of Furniture

- Disasters
- Environment
- Exhibition and Storage
- Packing, Handling, and Transport
- Collection Surveys

Conservation Administration and Management

- Museum/Conservation Administration and Management
- Marketing and Finance for Conservation
- Legal and Ethical Issues
- Studio Design

NOTE: Some of the information contained in the following references may be inappropriate for the practice of furniture conservation. However, it is important for conservators to be well versed in the range of literature available to both the general public and restorers. Discussion of information applicability can take place during the course.

Identification of Frames, Looking Glasses, and Painted Furniture

NOTE: Gilt furniture is variously treated in books, monographs and articles, devoted to style, historical epochs, country of origin and function, but never as gilt furniture per se. This listing is biased toward American gilt work.
